

Let's Use Our Senses

Senses are the body's way
To tell us what's around
Each helps the other perfectly
Touch, taste, sight and sound
I taste an apple; smell a flower
Scratch and itch and feel a shower
Senses are the body's way
To tell us what's around
Each helps the other perfectly
Touch, taste, sight and sound
I see lightning flash before my eyes
I start to count and listen
When I see lightning in the skies
I know there's thunder coming
I wait to hear it, counting slow
1, 2, 3, 4 – there it goes!
I feel the raindrops start to fall

I smell them in the air
All my senses work together
Keeping me aware
I have a cat that loves to play
He's black and fat and furry
I touch him and he's oh, so soft
I hear him start a-purrin'
I watch him turn to lick my hand
And feel his prickly tongue again
I love my cat and he loves me
When we play he makes me giggle
My senses say he's happy, too
When he wiggles and he jiggles
Senses are the body's way
To tell us what's around
Each helps the other perfectly
Touch, taste, sight and sound
